David Laine, Corporate Solution Manager MaaS, Transdev, Paris, France

Before joining Transdev as the Corporate Solution Manager MaaS in the Innovation Department, David launched several start-ups. He was one of the first to launch an electrical sharing services in France named Wattmobile mainly dedicated for businessmen who are used to travel with scooter in cities. Wattmobile was providing scooter located in the main train stations allowing the users to be mobile without the constraint of a car reservation. The company was bought out by Indigo Parking.

Now David is bringing his innovating mobility expertise to Transdev and he is in charge of building and deploying a MaaS' strategy at the Group Level.
