

Jean François Huere, Consultant, Public affairs, Autonomous Driving and Connected Cars, Vedecom, Versailles, France

Jean François Huere is an Independent expert in public affairs, for autonomous driving and connected cars. He spent most of his carrier at PSA Group (Peugeot Citroën...)

After more than 15 years of expertise in crash test measurement technics, road safety and biomechanics, he moved to the LAB (laboratory for Accidentology and Biomechanics, PSA and Renault) where he piloted in depth real life accident studies and epidemiology

In the early 2000's he moved to the Group's Headquarters, integrating the corporate communication department, in charge of automotive technologies and innovation.

In 2007, he joined the Group's Public Affairs Department, to promote the Industry positions on road safety, telematics, autonomous driving and new mobilities.

He has a significant international experience in these domains, having represented PSA in many contexts as European Commission, French and European Parliaments, various national and international authorities or associations, ACEA, ISO.